PREAMBLE:

On the occasion of Knowledge Day, the Faculty of Nature and Life Sciences is pleased to organize the XIth Scientific Day. This event aims to bring together researchers, academics, students, and professionals to promote knowledge exchange, showcase the latest scientific achievements, and enhance interdisciplinary collaboration.

This scientific day provides an excellent opportunity to highlight research excellence, innovation, and expertise across the various fields of Nature and Life Sciences while encouraging collaboration between the academic community and external partners.

We cordially invite all participants to actively contribute to the success of this scientific event and to the advancement of science in the service of society.
