The First International Seminar of Bioresources, Nutrition, and Health is the first attempt initiated by the Laboratory of Beneficial Microorganisms, Functional Foods, and Health (LMBAFS), University of Mostaganem-Algeria. We intend to reflect a beautiful international image on the scientific research undertaken at the University of Mostaganem, specifically in natural and food sciences. We plan to gather our students, our Algerian researchers, and international colleagues and partners around the same table to discuss innovation, tools, problems, and solutions to the different issues linking food, its active compounds, medicinal plants, and beneficial microorganisms that confer health's benefits seen in its broadest perspective.
